

Would your child love the chance of a real-life fossil-hunting experience?

Educational child-and-parent fossil trips now available in the East Northants area!

Learning & fun with expert guide:

Trained zoologist, science author and avid fossil-hunter Jules

Howard is offering hands on fossil-hunting and zoology activity trips as part of his highly-rated schools education service

PalaeoLab.

When? Wednesday 5th April.

Choice of morning or afternoon.

Where? Kings Dyke nature reserve, Whittlesey, PE7 1PD.

How much? Introductory offer of £20 per child (includes take-home fossils and gift). 1 x accompanying adult free for each child.

Book now!

Simply send an email to jules@palaeolab.co.uk stating how many places and preferred timeslot (either 10am-12noon, or 2pm-4pm) and we will send a

PayPal link to book. You can also use this email address to ask any questions!

Full public liability insurance in place, along with DBS certification. Children coming onto the site must be 5 years and over. This is suitable for all school-age children up to A-level: the one-on-one opportunities for learning will be appropriately tailored. All children must be accompanied by an adult (at least one adult to every 4 children). In cases of severely bad weather the trip may have to be rescheduled and, if no date can be found, all monies will be refunded. You will need wellies or thick walking boots, plus waterproofs and a spare pair of socks!

PalaeoLab

www.palaeolab.co.uk