Dear Sir/Madam

TK Maxx Give Up Clothes for Good September 2017

My name is Simon Stanford and I work at your local TKMaxx

At TK Maxx we're passionate about doing our bit for charity and support those organisations that help vulnerable children and young people in our local communities.

Once again we will be running our Give up clothes for Good campaign in our TK Maxx UK stores to raise funds for our National charity partner, Cancer Research UK Kids and Teens.

Since 2004 TK Maxx have raised over £30 million for Cancer Research UK's work through stock and cash donations with over £26 million supporting research into children's cancers specifically, developing better and kinder treatments.

To get involved your pupils and faculty team just need fill up a bag with items they no longer need and bring it to your nearest TK Maxx store or into your school. As your local TK Maxx store we will be more than happy to personally arrange for the bags to be picked up from your school. We will work in partnership with you to ensure that the bags are taken from your school in a timely manner.

Cancer Research UK can then sell these items in their shops to generate money to help beat children's cancers sooner.

Your donations really do make a difference with each donated bag generating as much as £25 for Cancer Research UK Kids and Teens.

I hope that you'll be able to offer your support and I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,
Simon Stanford
